

NANCY WYNNE CHATS ABOUT MANY OF THE DAILY DOINGS OF SOCIETY

"In a Persian Garden" Will Be Given This Evening at the Bellevue-Stratford by the Orpheus Quartet to Aid Oncologic Hospital

MUSIC LOVERS will spend a delightful evening at the Bellevue-Stratford tonight when the Orpheus Quartet gives "In a Persian Garden," an exquisite cycle. The members of the quartet will appear in costume appropriate to the cycle. The early part of the program will be devoted to a harp recital by Dorothy Johnstone-Baseler, whose artistic work is so well known. The members of the quartet are Miss Edna Harwood Baugher, Miss Mabelle Addison, Mr. Nicholas Doust and Mr. Donald Redding. Mr. Ellis Clark Hamman is the accompanist.

The affair will be given for the benefit of the Oncologic Hospital, which is situated at 33d street and Powelton avenue. A number of prominent women have given their names as patronesses, and will probably attend the concert. Among them are Mrs. Samuel Austin, Mrs. Francis Shunk Brown, Mrs. Leonard T. Beale, Mrs. Robert Kelso Cassatt, Mrs. William Bradley, Mrs. Edward W. Biddle, Mrs. J. Clark Moore, Jr., Mrs. George Calvert Carter, Mrs. Clarence M. Clark, Mrs. Clarence F. Clafin, Mrs. Hamilton Dison, Miss Mary Converse, Mrs. John Wanamaker, Mrs. Francis McAdams, Mrs. Norman MacLeod, Mrs. Wilson Potter, Mrs. Earl B. Putnam, Mrs. H. S. Paul, Jr., Mrs. Mitchell G. Rosengarten, Mrs. Henry Drinker Riley, Mrs. C. J. Rainear, Mrs. William J. Strawbridge, Mrs. John R. Scott, Mrs. Frederick W. Schmidt, Mrs. George H. Stewart, Jr., Mrs. George C. Thomas, Mrs. Louis Kolb, Mrs. Horace Binney Hare, Mrs. John Mueckle, Miss Nina Lea, Mrs. Stacy B. Lloyd, Mrs. John White Geary and Mrs. William H. Derbyshire.

Uytendale Baird, that popular young deb of the season past, will be given a delightful luncheon today by Mrs. Earl B. Putnam, at the Acorn Club. There are to be 12 guests, and they are all going after the luncheon to hear Fritz Kreisler at the Academy of Music. Uytendale has really had one of the very best times this winter. She is so well informed, and so talented, too, that she is an addition to every party, besides being exceptionally attractive in herself, which is, after all, the best asset for a good time.

Now it may seem as if Miss McKim and others of her ilk were taking all the glory, or rather being given all the glory, of helping the poor soldiers abroad, and as if the classes in preparation, which are being held all over the city for the boys, were the only things of interest about, but this is by no means the case. Only yesterday I heard of a most flourishing class for little girls, and let me tell you what these same little girls accomplished at their one meeting last week was remarkable. The class meets at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Reed Morgan, whose little daughter Elizabeth is one of the prime movers in the work. The second meeting will be held this afternoon, for these small girls go every Tuesday after luncheon, and work busily all afternoon. One little member spoke of last week's meeting. "It was a most enthusiastic meeting. We made 100 surgical dressings and rolled 200 bandages; we work and talk and have a lovely time." And I hear that after the busy afternoon's work is over cakes are served and every little girl likes that, too, you know, so altogether they have a wonderful time, and are learning to be real helps in case of emergency here, and their present work is sent to aid the soldiers abroad. Just imagine, these little girls, whose ages range from 8 to 12, making knit aprons, surgical dressings, bandages, and cut out socks. Among those who belong to the class are Mary Geary, Lucille Austin, Catherine Dunn, Evelyn Drayton, Caroline Drayton, Virginia Carpenter, Mary Bayard, Frances Bayard, Betty Purviance, Frances Bicknell, Sue Goodman, Jane Goodman, Annette Newhall, Letitia Landreth, Mary Bartow, Virginia Earle, Catherine Porter, Carolyn Davis, Caroline Graham, Polly Foltz, Emma Norris, Gertrude Dougherty, Margaret Ferguson, Eleanor Sewell, Annabel Sewell, Elizabeth Strubing, Louise Dixon, Lee Tunia, Margaret Masters, Georgianna Harris, Helen Brown, and all the coming buds of Chestnut Hill society. It really is quite wonderful, I think, and I am sure it is as delightful for the older people who help Mrs. Morgan direct work, as for the little girls themselves.
